About The Porte Bella Door Company

There are homes, and then there are residences that speak.

At Porte Bella, we exist for the latter.

We believe a door is not a boundary, but an introduction. It is the first impression cast in wood, glass, and steel. It's the quiet signal that what lies beyond has been considered, curated, and crafted with intention. Our work begins where standard ends, serving those who understand that true luxury is not loud, but unmistakable.

Porte Bella was founded on a simple principle: exceptional homes deserve exceptional thresholds. Drawing from the finest traditions of European craftsmanship and pairing them with modern engineering, we deliver doors that are as enduring as they are elegant. Every collection is thoughtfully assembled to balance architectural integrity with artistic expression, timeless, never trendy.

We offer a portfolio defined by precision, material excellence, and design versatility. From the clean, expansive lines of our patio doors to the rich, sculptural presence of hardwood entries, each piece is selected and refined to meet the highest standards of performance and aesthetic distinction.

But what truly defines Porte Bella is not the product, it is the experience.

We operate with a concierge mindset, guiding clients, designers, and builders through a tailored process that respects both vision and detail. From initial consultation to final installation, every interaction is handled with discretion, expertise, and an unwavering commitment to getting it right. No shortcuts. No compromises.

Because in the end, a Porte Bella door is more than an entryway.

It is a statement of arrival.

The People Behind Porte Bella

Behind every Porte Bella door is a team that understands the balance of design, detail, and discretion. Our specialists bring together craftsmanship expertise and a refined eye for architecture, guiding each project with care from first conversation to final installation. Because true luxury isn't just built, it's thoughtfully delivered, by people who know the difference.

Cassandra Snyder

Co-Owner & Creative Director

As Co-Owner and Creative Director of Porte Bella, Cassandra Snyder shapes the brand's distinct voice and visual identity, ensuring every detail reflects a refined, cohesive vision of luxury. With a background in strategy, design, and storytelling, she brings a discerning eye to every collection, balancing elegance with intention at every turn.

Kyle Williamson

Co-Owner & Head of Operations

As Co-Founder, Kyle brings an entrepreneurial mindset and hands-on approach to the company's operations, execution, and growth. With an appreciation for craftsmanship and a commitment to doing things well, he helps ensure our vision is carried through.

Ross Rimmell

Lead Craftsman

A lifelong maker with an appreciation for thoughtful design and hands-on craftsmanship, Ross brings a builder's eye. His interests span all fabrication, reflecting the same balance of artistry, precision, and problem-solving that defines our approach to exceptional doors.

Ali Bernardo

Private Client Advisor

Ali works personally with clients in their homes, helping them explore door styles, materials, and design possibilities that complement both their architecture and the way they live. Ali brings a natural warmth and thoughtful attention to every Port Bella consultation.

Entry Doors

An entry door is more than a point of access, it is the defining moment of arrival. It sets the tone, establishes expectation, and offers the first glimpse into the world beyond. At Porte Bella, each entry door is selected with this understanding, where proportion, material, and detail come together to create something both commanding and considered.

From grand, traditionally crafted hardwood doors to refined, contemporary statements with clean architectural lines, our collection is curated to complement a wide range of homes, each piece chosen not for trend, but for timeless presence. These are doors designed to endure, both in performance and in aesthetic, aging with grace as they become part of the home's story.

Every entry door within the Porte Bella collection reflects a balance of artistry and engineering, built with premium materials, precise construction, and an unwavering attention to detail. The result is a door that does more than welcome; it defines.

Iron Classic Panel Door

Chateau Panel Door

The Riviera House

This pre-hung arched entry door is offered in a standard 3'0" x 8'0" size and paired with 14" sidelites for a balanced, expansive entry. Constructed from solid mahogany with matching species components, it features an adjustable bronze threshold and integrated door sweep, and arrives fully assembled for immediate installation.

Effortless and refined, The Riviera House draws from coastal architecture where elegance feels natural and unforced. Its arched profile and balanced sidelites create a welcoming presence, soft in form, yet unmistakable in impact.

Crafted from solid mahogany, this entry door offers both richness and durability, designed to perform as beautifully as it presents. Thoughtful details, from the bronze threshold to its fully assembled delivery, ensure a seamless transition from selection to installation.

The Langston House

Available in 6'8" and 8'0" heights with options for single or double door configurations and sidelites. Constructed from solid Brazilian mahogany with matching components, with a selection of glass styles including clear, frosted, reeded, and decorative options.

Structured and refined, The Langston House draws from contemporary design where clean lines and geometric balance define the entry. The interplay of solid mahogany and glass creates a composition that feels both modern and enduring.

Designed for both presence and performance, each door offers a considered balance of light, privacy, and proportion, delivering a statement that is as functional as it is architectural.

Entry Door with Sidelights

The Astor House

Crafted from solid Brazilian mahogany with matching components, this collection is available in a range of single and double door configurations with optional sidelites. Decorative glass options, including beveled and custom styles, allow for tailored design.

Ornate in detail and unmistakable in presence, The Astor House draws from classical European influence, where symmetry, curvature, and craftsmanship define the entry. Its layered design and decorative glasswork create a sense of depth and refinement, formal, yet inviting.

Rich mahogany framing and sculptural elements give each door a commanding presence, while intricate glass options introduce light with intention. The result is an entry that feels both timeless and expressive.

The St. Clair House

Crafted from solid Brazilian mahogany, this collection is available in 6'8" and 8'0" door sizes with options for single and double configurations, including transoms and sidelites. Clear beveled glass with multi-faceted detailing is standard, with additional glass options available upon request.

Graceful and expressive, The St. Clair House draws from classic design where curvature and detail create a sense of quiet luxury. Its circular motifs and decorative glass bring softness to the structure, offering an entry that feels both distinctive and welcoming.

Rich mahogany framing grounds the design, while multi-faceted glass introduces light with subtle brilliance, striking a balance between ornament and restraint.

The Vanderbilt House

Available in larger-format configurations, including double doors with sidelites and transoms, this collection is crafted from solid mahogany with matching components. Decorative and architectural glass options enhance scale and light.

Commanding in scale and unmistakable in presence, The Vanderbilt House draws from the grandeur of historic estates where architecture was designed to impress and endure. Its sweeping arches and expansive glasswork create a sense of arrival that is both dramatic and refined.

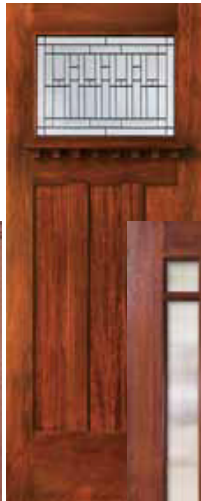

Balanced by rich mahogany construction, each design blends structural strength with ornamental detail, allowing light to fill the entry while maintaining a strong, architectural silhouette. The result is an entrance that feels both stately and inviting.

The Stickley House

Available in a range of standard sizes and configurations, including single doors with optional sidelites and transoms. Crafted from solid Brazilian mahogany with matching components, with glass options including clear, rain, reeded, and art glass to complement both traditional and modern interpretations of the style.

Grounded in craftsmanship and guided by purpose, The Stickley House reflects the principles of true Arts & Crafts design, where every line serves a function and every detail is intentional. Its structured panels and geometric glasswork create a sense of honesty and balance.

Solid mahogany construction highlights the natural beauty of the material, while clean, architectural forms offer a timeless alternative to more ornate styles. The result is an entry defined not by excess, but by integrity and quiet strength.

The Guinan House

Available in a range of arched and rectangular configurations, including single and double doors with optional sidelites. Crafted from knotty alder or mahogany with matching components, featuring design elements such as wrought iron accents, speakeasy windows, and plank-style construction. Glass options include clear, rain, reeded, and decorative styles, allowing for flexibility in both privacy and design.

Rugged in character and rich with heritage, The Guinan House draws from a tradition where craftsmanship meets resilience. Inspired by Southwestern influence and rustic arched design, each door carries a sense of history, marked by texture, weight, and unmistakable presence.

Arched profiles, iron accents, and natural wood grain come together to create an entry that feels both enduring and lived-in. Less polished, more purposeful, these designs embrace imperfection as part of their beauty, offering a bold contrast to more formal architectural styles.
